

George A. Rosebrock has forty years of experience in security and law enforcement including twenty-eight years with the Chicago Police Department where he retired as a commander. Five years of experience heading the McCormick Place Security Department. Involved in security preparations for many large events including Microsoft, National Restaurant Association, Auto Show, NATO conference, and President Obama's re-election celebration. Has a Master of Science degree in Criminal/Social Justice from Lewis University.